Program: “Bayanihan Clinic Healthy Breast Program”

Program Summary:

Bayanihan Clinic is one of seven student-run clinics sponsored by the UC Davis School of Medicine. The clinic operates out of the Health For All clinic building in Sacramento. The mission of Bayanihan Clinic is to provide culturally and linguistically sensitive primary care to the underserved Filipino population, particularly World War II Veterans and recent immigrants, and the greater uninsured population in Sacramento. Utilizing a Promotores Model of healthcare outreach, The Bayanihan Clinic Healthy Breast Program will provide healthy breast education, awareness and screening to 300 women within the clinic’s patient population and assure that 100 women receive mammograms. Studies have shown that community-based interventions and outreach are much more successful in reaching the women targeted by this initiative than conventional methods. Promotores will go into the community to visit women and provide them with information on the Healthy Breast Program and hold screening events. They will conduct small presentations in varied settings such as a community center, church, or at the clinic. Participants will complete a questionnaire that can be evaluated by the Coordinator to assess the participant’s breast health needs. Referrals, further breast health care information and annual reminders will be made through subsequent phone or mail contact.
